'Lawyer' Mike Giusto pleads his case and grills a witness

Youngsters at Capuchino take law into their own hands

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

It wasn't a typical courtroom scene: the judge, wearing blue jeans, was chewing gum; the court clerk was dressed in a mini-skirted cheerleader's uniform; and the visitors section cheered and hooted as lawyers questioned witnesses.

On any other day of the week, they probably would have been studying legal cases, but today, Friday, was "Trial Day" for Jim Friedman's two law classes at Capuchino High School, San Bruno.

"Talking isn't teaching and listening isn't learning. I like to get kids out of their seats and interacting with one another," said the energetic teacher while he gulped down a soft drink for lunch.

As student activities director for Cap, Friedman, 33, has more important things to do at lunchtime than eat. Running (not walking) through the halls, keys jangling in his pocket, he seems to be a sort of campus Superman. Students constantly badger him with questions that he answers quickly, sometimes abruptly, but always with a smile.

Friedman, a compact man with curly brown hair and intense brown eyes, talked faster than a speeding bullet as he described his brainstorm for getting students interested in the law. Cooked up during what might otherwise have been a few spare hours last summer, his plan basically is to let youngsters take the law into their own hands.

From Monday through Thursday, they earn points by taking quizzes and tests and acting out skits illustrating legal procedures. On Friday, those points become "dollars" that they can use to hire lawyers to sue or defend them in court — where they win and lose more dollars.

"Points don't mean much to kids but dollars do," Friedman explained.

The competition is real, for the students with the most "dollars" at the end of the term will get the highest grades.

Students take turns assuming such roles as judge, court clerk, district attorney, public defender and process server.

What about the rest of the class? "They're lawyers," Friedman said, laughing behind his moustache as it suddenly dawned on him how closely his class imitates real life.

When students decide to sue, they have their lawyers fill out complaints and deliver them to the process server, who passes them along to the defendants. The defendants' lawyers then file their answers. The court clerk turns in both the complaints and answers to the judge, who posts cases on a court docket (a clipboard) that hangs at the front of the classroom.

Friedman seems to have thought of everything. If his students lack enough points to hire their own attorneys, they are represented by free public defenders. The truly "deserted" may file bankruptcy once a semester and may earn "dollars" by going on probation and performing special assignments.

They can subpoena witnesses (who are found in contempt of court and fined if they don't show), negotiate fees with their attorneys (who may advertise their services) and impeach the judge.

Students may sue one another for such civil actions as trespassing, assault or battery and Friedman may bring criminal actions against students based upon "crimes" to the entire class like larceny or vandalism.

Nor is the teacher immune to the "court," Friedman confessed that students have filed lawsuits against him charging, among other things, "defamation" (saying something derogatory about football players) and "breach of contract" (eliminating a homework assignment that would have allowed students to earn extra points).

In past classroom trials, student juries have fined a boy $30 who allegedly slandered a girl and fined another girl $15 who, the complainant contended, was talking and creating a nuisance while he was trying to complete an assignment in class.

The judge fined another student $9 when he failed to show up for a trial in which the class was suing him for truancy.

Friedman scowls when people ask, "How's your simulated courtroom going?" Thumping a finger on a desk, he stressed, "This is not simulation. This is real life."

Indeed, the "lawyers" and "clients" at a "trial" held recently in Friedman's fifth period class seemed genuinely concerned about the outcome of the proceedings.

Gum-chewing Ken Bayne, serving as judge, called the courtroom to order by ringing a receptionist's bell as he sat on a stool behind a tall desk. Cheerleader Fawn Saunders (the court clerk) called six students to serve as jurors. An attorney found one juror objectionable and dismissed him.

It was, Ken proclaimed, the case of "Batori vs. Ossenberg" — Lynne Batori vs. Doug Ossenberg, to be exact.

Lynne, an attractive girl with long brown hair who looks more sophisticated than her 17 years, sued Doug for assault, battery and trespassing after he allegedly grabbed her when she wouldn't go out on a date with him.

Doug, a shaggy-haired boy who had dressed up for his day in court, sued Lynne on the same grounds, charging that she had hit him back. Lynne added a charge of bribery when Doug apparently tried to make peace by asking her out to lunch.

Jeff Sorenson, wearing a baggy T-shirt and brown corduroy pants, represented Doug. Mike Giusto, dressed in a neat brown shirt and carefully pressed white slacks, was Lynne's attorney.

Both of their clients looked somber as the testimony delved into their personal lives.

Jeff didn't dwell on any specifics in his opening statement. Doug went into great detail about how he intended to prove Lynne's innocence by establishing that she was only trying to defend herself when she pushed Doug and that Doug later attempted to bribe her.

Jeff didn't seem to know what to do with his first witness after he was sworn in. "Establish his expertise," Friedman prompted in a stage whisper from the back of the room.

Jeff then questioned the witness, Louis Ratto, about how well he was acquainted with Lynne and he succeeded in getting Louis to state, "She really gets obnoxious and very violent" and that Doug, on the other hand, "wouldn't hurt a fly."

Mike tried to discredit the witness by asking, "If a girl grabbed you, what would you do?"

"I don't hit girls," Louis declared.

"How well do you know Lynne?" Mike asked, staring him in the eye.

"Good enough," Louie said defiantly. But he admitted in subsequent questioning that he had never dated Lynne.

"If you were a girl, what would you do if a guy came up and grabbed you?" Mike asked.

Doug Ossenberg: plaintiff Lynne Batori

"Objection!" Jeff screamed. The judge sustained his objection.

Jeff's second witness, Kurt McDonald, also testified that Lynne was capable of violence and that he had never seen Doug act violently.

Mike conferred with his client before asking, "Have you ever gone out with Lynne?"

"No," Kurt replied.

"Then how can you say what she's like?"

"Because I've known her for a couple of years."

"So, in other words, you don't see Lynne that much."

"I see her around."

Jeff's third witness was Doug himself. Doug explained, "I was going to take Lynne on a date and she was screwing around and hit my nose, which I classify as private property. I guess I patted her back."

With his arms akimbo, Jeff asked, "Would you say you pushed her away in the heat of anger?"

"Yes."

"And later you asked her out to lunch?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"To talk it out. Because I didn't think it was my fault."

When it was his turn to cross-examine, Mike caught Doug off-guard by asking, "Do you have a girlfriend?" When Doug replied, "Yes," Mike said, "Then what were you doing asking this girl out?" The class roared with laughter.

"Objection!" Jeff called. "That's his personal life."

Lynne piped up, "He just got into mine!" Although some of her classmates applauded, the judge sustained the objection.

Doug again defended his striking of Lynne by saying, "She grabbed my nose."

"Do you know the penalty for perjury?" Mike asked in a threatening tone as he paced back and forth in front of his classmates.

Soon Mike was calling his own witnesses to the stand. One was Brent Baker, who testified that he saw Doug grab Lynne and consider Doug to be a "violent person."

Another was a friend of Lynne's, Terri Eckley, who told the court she would have fought back, just as Lynne had, if Doug had grabbed her.

In his cross-examination, Jeff asked Terri to tell him exactly what she saw when she witnessed the incident between Lynne and Doug.

"I heard it. I didn't see anything," Terri admitted.

Jeff repeated that point to make sure the jury had heard it.

For his last witness, Mike attempted to call the judge, Ken Bayne, to the stand.

Friedman called from the back of the room, "That's highly unprecedented."

He asked the class to consider the question of whether a judge could still be a judge after he testified. The class agreed he could not and Ken decided he didn't want to testify.

In his closing statement, Jeff urged the jury to consider that two character witnesses had testified that Lynne is capable of hitting Doug and that Doug is incapable of violence.

"Doug offered to buy her lunch as a peace offering," he said.

He asked the jury to award his client $70 — the maximum allowed under the class rules.

Mike began his closing statement by saying, "You all know the symptoms of being high."

The judge shouted, "You can't do that!" Mike replied, "Oh, bull—!"

While the students laughed, the judge held Mike in contempt of court and fined him $5.

Mike then hammered home the point that he had produced a witness who saw Doug grab Lynne whereas Jeff had been unable to find anyone who saw Lynne hit Doug.

He called Doug's offer of lunch a "bribe" and asked the jury to award Lynne $80 — also the maximum allowed.

After the jury had filed out of the room, Friedman asked the class why Mike had never called his client, Lynne, to the stand. The class agreed that Mike was afraid Jeff might have elicited some damaging testimony from her.

"I thought for sure he would call her!" Jeff said mournfully. He lost his chance to question her by failing to call Lynne as one of his witnesses.

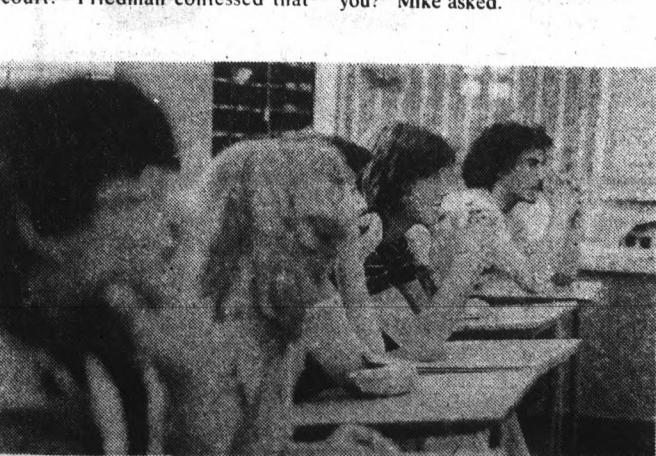

Friedman also asked Mike why he had dismissed the one male juror. "I wanted more girls. I thought they would be more sympathetic," Mike explained.

It took the jury only six minutes to decide the verdict. Lynne, Doug, Mike and Jeff all looked apprehensive as the six students returned to their seats.

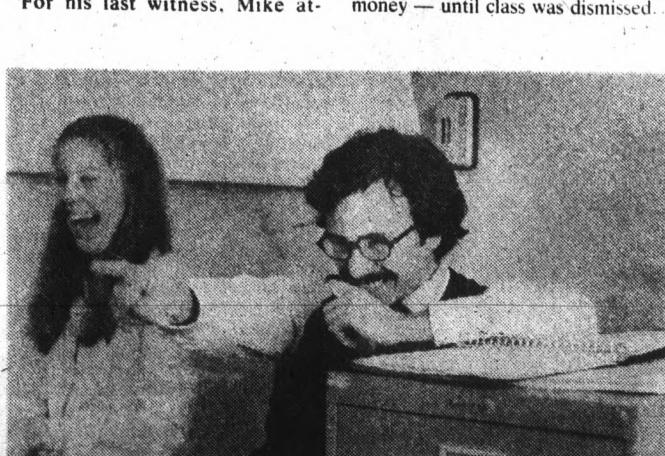

The jury foreman, Mike Cox, paused dramatically before he announced that the jury had found Doug guilty of the battery and trespassing charges, had dropped the assault and bribery charges against him and that he would have to pay $40 rather than the $80 sought.

Mike and Lynne whooped for joy and their friends hugged them and slapped them on the backs.

It was hard to remember that it wasn't a real trial and it wasn't real money — until class was dismissed.

Teachers pay a tribute to Dion Dubois

By JOHN CURRY
Post Staff Writer

The man who may have made the greatest sacrifice of all for the teachers during their recent strike against the Jefferson Union High School District wasn't a teacher.

He hasn't been forgotten, either, a very surprised Dion Dubois found

Monday afternoon at a party in his honor at the Gellert Park Clubhouse in Daly City.

Dubois, who started the nine-week American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 strike against the district Sept. 5 as principal of Serramonte High School, ended it as an administrative assistant at Thornton High after refusing to point out striking teachers who entered the Serramonte campus to Daly City police and have them arrested, as principals at all the district schools had been ordered to do. Dubois said at the time his conscience just wouldn't allow him to do it.

The 42-year-old Dubois was suspended from his principal's post by Superintendent Floyd Gonella during the first week of the strike and sent to Thornton. He has been with the district for 19 years and in the late 1960s was the AFT local president. Years before the local became the exclusive bargaining agent for the teachers in 1976 and for the paraprofessionals and business and office personnel in 1979.

Now, with a legal battle in the offing to get his principal's job back, the staff and Serramonte High came to Dubois' assistance Monday with a basket stuffed with Christmas goodies of the most negotiable kind: Checks totalling $5,520 in recognition of his "act of principle."

Mike began his closing statement by saying, "You all know the symptoms of being high."

The judge shouted, "You can't do that!" Mike replied, "Oh, bull—!"

While the students laughed, the judge held Mike in contempt of court and fined him $5.

Mike then hammered home the point that he had produced a witness who saw Doug grab Lynne whereas Jeff had been unable to find anyone who saw Lynne hit Doug.

Ms. Basual, who was convicted of murdering her husband in Daly City, was given an open-ended prison sentence that she will serve concurrently with a 27-year term imposed for another murder earlier this year.

Ms. Basual was convicted in the 1974 murder of her husband, Gilbert Gaines, in San Mateo County Superior Court Nov. 30.

Judge Gerald E. Ragan handed down the sentence Thursday, noting that the murder took place before the imposition of the determinate sentencing law.

The sentence will be considered by the Community Release Board, which can impose a definite time limit or extend the present 27-year sentence.

Ms. Basual is serving time for the murder of Litho McDowell, which she was convicted of in San Francisco. During that trial, evidence linking her to the 1974 Gaines slaying was developed and another trial held in San Mateo County.

tions of a day's pay from everyone, about 90, at the school to help pay Dubois' legal expenses. About 75 teachers, clerical workers and janitors attended the party, decked out in "Do It for Dion" buttons, and with the walls plastered with "We Did It for Dion" signs.

Coastal program finally a fact

By JOHN CURRY
Post Staff Writer

After nearly two years of work and its adoption by the City Council Monday night, the Daly City Local Coastal Program is now a fact.

The LCP was mandated by the California Coastal Act of 1976. All cities and counties along the coast must prepare such a plan for their jurisdictions by Jan. 1, 1981.

Daly City's program, approved by the General Plan Citizens Advisory Committee and the Planning Commission last month, lays out development guidelines in the state coastal zone within the city, formerly overseen by the state Coastal Zone Conservation Commission regional board since 1973.

The Coastal Act returned jurisdiction to local agencies within certain guidelines.

Indicative of these was another vote by the council Monday night that amended the city zoning ordinance to add an open space, open space residential and resource protection combining districts, and a City Policies and Land Use Map for the coastal zone.

Daly City's coastal zone generally is the area west of Highway 1 in the central and southern city, and north of John Daly Boulevard and west of Eastgate Drive in the north. It also includes a small portion of the Westlake district around Manor Drive, just south of the tip of Lake Merced in San Francisco.

The zone includes Olympia School, now closed, and the subject of a controversy between the city and the Jefferson Elementary School District over the city's desire to buy 17,000 square feet of the playground for a park. Harold Charns, the city's coastal planner, told the council the school site isn't zoned for anything now and that any developer would have to seek a rezoning from the city and then go to the regional Coastal Commission for a permit to do anything with it.

The Daly City LCP must be certified by the regional and state coastal commissions. The Regional Commission will consider it at its Jan. 12 meeting in Daly City, at 390 90th St., before passing it on to the state body.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky said that once the LCP is certified, builders no longer will have to go to the Coastal Commission for building permits, but that an applicant still can appeal a denial by the city to the Regional Commission.

Polonsky called the city LCP "a blueprint" for development.

Because of a long list of corrections of language and typographical errors in the plan draft, the council was dubious about voting on it Monday, but Charns said it had to be approved now if it were to get on the Regional Coastal Commission agenda next month.

The approval was given, contingent on the corrections being made and that none of them would change the substance of the plan.

In another matter involving some coastal property, Polonsky argued with Conrad Pavella, 62 Theta St., over who did what with deeds years ago to the property now occupied by the Mussel Rock dump site and the adjacent recently-completed garbage transfer station.

Pavella, armed with a folder of copies of legal documents, claimed that the land descriptions on the deed held by the city doesn't match that conveyed back in the 1960s and "I feel there's been a great mixup on this." He said the only way to settle the matter would be with a title search.

Councilman William Schumacher opposed that idea. He said such a search would be a large undertaking and cost perhaps $5,000.

Polonsky said he has the records of all that transpired and insisted everything was in order. The city owns the dumpsite, closed early this year, and the Skyline Land Co. owns the transfer station land.

"If there's been a mistake by the (Daly City) Scavengers (who deeded the dumpsite to the city) or Skyline Land Co., it's their problem," Polonsky maintained.

At the council's behest, however, Polonsky is to go over the records just to be sure and, if all is well, set the record straight.

The matter came up as an aside to an agenda item in which the council officially accepted completion of the dumpsite grading by B. Fontana and Sons. The final cost was $283,781, below the authorized $300,000. The dump closure is completed and all work on the dump closure now is complete, City Engineer C.F. Mobley reported.

In other business the council:

Learned from City Manager David R. Rowe that the city has obtained an appraisal of the Abraham Lincoln School site in Westlake and presented a copy to the Jefferson Elementary District last Thursday for its perusal. Rowe said negotiations by the city to buy the closed school from the district may begin this week:

Approved advertising for bids for its 1979-80 sidewalk, curb and gutter improvements, at a cost of up to $50,000.

Continued to Jan. 14 a zone change and minor subdivision for a proposed one-story warehouse on Hill Street, just north of Washington Street.

Al Garibaldi, Reno Ceccato and Jan Bantique, co-chairmen of the Daly City Colma Skylions Club holiday show have a reminder for all localities who would enjoy celebrating the Christmas season with a family evening at "the theater." Tickets to Saturday evening's performance by "The Family Vodvok Theater" are available.

The show will be presented in the Daly City War Memorial building, 6655 Mission St., beginning at 7:30 p.m. and will feature an old-fashioned vaudeville flavor.

Proceeds from the event will be used by the Lions for philanthropic projects. Tickets at the door or you can reserve space by calling 994-5466.

MEMBERS OF THE FIFTY PLUS CLUB OF PACIFICA must hurry if they are to obtain space on the club's bus-tour to Lake Tahoe for New Years.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, the tour chairman for the group, has arranged for the members to go, via bus, to the Nevada Lodge for a lively New Year's Eve celebration and a restful New Year's Day.

Cost for the outing, which lasts three days and two nights, is $77 per person.

Contact the reservations chairwoman, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, to make reservations or to obtain details.

Our Lady of Mercy parish members will have an opportunity to welcome the New Year in the company of friends.

Mrs. Carolyn Maehi and Dick Galliani are co-chairing the annual Westlake Catholic Men and Westlake Catholic Women's New Year's Eve Dinner Dance, "Stairway to the 80s."

The celebration will begin at 8 p.m. in the parish hall Dec. 31. The committee has arranged a sit-down dinner, which will include bar-b-que steak with wine. Dancing will be to the music of the Stephanie Teel Trio.

Decorating the parish hall for the party will be Mrs. Sandy Lendall and her committee. Mrs. Shirley McKee is accepting requests for reservations. Tickets are being sold for $17.50 per person. Space is limited, so call early.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO'S Louise Enberg is seeking persons who wish to begin the new year with a new volunteer job.

Mrs. Enberg, for a number of years the executive director of the Bay Area Chapter of Friends Outside, a group which attempts to help families who have become involved with the law and have family members in prison or jail. The group is hoping to locate persons who have extra time available, who enjoy working with people and who have a talent for being a "friend."

Specifically, Mrs. Enberg needs persons who could drive between the San Bruno jail facility and the San Francisco Hall of Justice, or people who could volunteer to be "friends" to a family in crisis, people who would volunteer to watch small children or people with office skills who could work in the Friends Outside office.

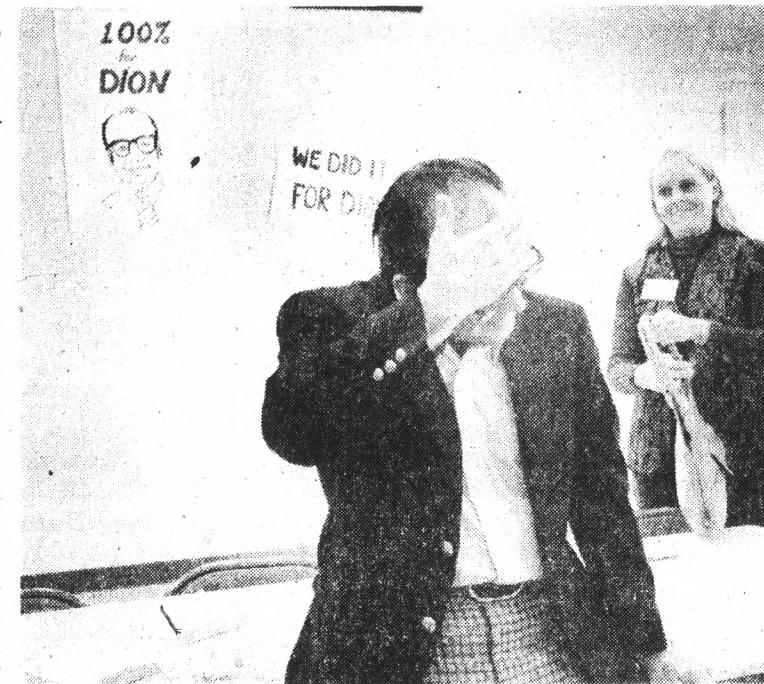

Other needs of the group include used clothing, all sizes, food for parcels, storage space, a spare room to be used overnight on occasion, and hand-work materials.

Call the Friends Outside office or Mrs. Rudy Enberg if you can be a helper.

Mr. and Mrs. Gwan Eng Lie of Westlake are preparing for a holiday season which will see their welcoming family from Los Angeles and Hong Kong.

In addition to the entertaining in their home, the Lies are among the members of the Golden Gate Handbell Choir and they will be performing on a number of occasions during the holiday season.

Next performance by the Golden Gate group will be Sunday at 1 p.m. in the Joseph Magnin store in San Francisco.

OVERCOME WITH EMOTION

Dion Dubois bows his head as he realizes that fellow teachers and employees in the Jefferson Union High School District had contributed more than $5,000 to him after he was demoted from being principal at Serra-monte High during the recent school strike.

Inspectors still studying samples

County health inspectors still are collecting samples for analysis from the Amberwood Apartments in Daly City this week, trying to find what may be causing illness symptoms in many of its elderly residents.

The number of persons with such symptoms rose to 33 over the weekend, with interpreters reporting for several non-English-speaking tenants. The story broke on a television news show last week, with 17 persons reported ill at that time.

The number grew steadily as word got around and more tenants checked in, telling of watery eyes, sinus problems and itching.

Cursory investigations so far have indicated the problem may be an allergic reaction by some people to the formaldehyde preservatives used in the pressed board kitchen cabinets or a formaldehyde resin in the underpadding of the carpeting.

The 123-unit apartment complex for senior citizens and handicapped opened for occupancy at 205 Cerro Drive last April. Some of the tenants who moved in then say they have had these symptoms since, but didn't have them before. Some also say they improve when they go out, but that the symptoms return when they get home.

JUST IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS

Barbara and Rogerio Manzanares of Daly City announced last week that they have adopted their niece, 14-year-old America "Amy" Diana (seated between them on couch), as their daughter. Sharing in the family celebration are Amy's new sister and brother, Patricia, 9, and Roy, 13. The adoption papers came through 6 1/2 months after they succeeded in bringing the orphaned girl to the United States from Nicaragua, which was wracked by political upheavals. The emotional reunion at San Francisco International Airport last May culminated six months of battling with immigration authorities to obtain a visa for Amy.

I know that you are so rushed you hardly have time to think, let alone sit down and read this column, but you deserve a break.

Have a cup of coffee and think about a delicious and very appropriate dessert for Christmas dinner.

Scripture Cake is a rich dark cake made with fruits, nuts, and spices, baked in an oblong baking pan—which makes cutting simple—and served with a dollop of whipped cream.

The remarkable thing about this recipe is that the ingredients are listed by verses from the Old Testament.

SCRIPTURE CAKE

1/2 cup Judges 5:25
1 cup Jeremiah 6:20
3 each Isaiah 10:14
3 tablespoons I Samuel 14:25
2 cups I Kings 4:22
1/2 teaspoons Leviticus 2:13
2 teaspoons Amos 4:5
1 teaspoon Exodus 30:23
1 teaspoon II Chronicles 9:9
1/2 cup Judges 4:19
1 cup Nahum 3:12
1 cup Numbers 17:8
1 cup I Samuel 30:12

Cream the half cup Judges 5:25 and one cup Jeremiah 6:20. Separate Isaiah 10:14 and beat the three yolks. Add to creamed mixture. Beat in three tablespoons I Samuel 14:25.

Sift together two cups I Kings 4:22 with one-half teaspoon Leviticus 2:13, two teaspoons Amos 4:5, one teaspoon Exodus 30:23 and one teaspoon II Chronicles 9:9. Add to creamed mixture alternately with one-half cup Judges 4:19. Stir in one cup chopped nahum 3:12, one cup sliced Numbers 17:8 and one cup I Samuel 30:12. Fold in the beaten whites of Isaiah 10:14.

By ELISE GENDAR

I've been thinking . . . (bad habit of mine), and I've been fat, and it's my personal decision that it's better to wear a small size than it is to eat all those glorious things that spell holiday.

Believe me, this is not the easiest time of year for the dieter or the maintainer.

One more article on Christmas cookies, one more discussion of the latest for Chanukah—and even my resolve may break. Until I think of my closet where hang those small sizes. And they're worth it. So what to do?

Never let myself be hungry when I go out during the holidays. Before I leave the house for a party, I'll have my dairy milk allowance in the form of a cup of skim milk hot chocolate. With that, nestling comfortably in my tummy, the hors d'oeuvres and other goodies that confront me will not loom as tempting.

Wear a dress that lets me know it's on. When I feel the reassurance of a belt, I'll be more careful about just one bit extra in remembrance of things past—those horrible tent dresses I once swathed about my party figure.

Concentrate on the company. I'm not one of those who finds parties dreary. Everyone is interesting—if you take time to draw them out. I spent so much time withdrawn into my own fat that being alive and alert is the fun in living.

Have something really delicious and holiday waiting for me at home. I picked this recipe up from a recent diet cooking contest, and I love it!

SEA FOOD THERMIDORE

6 oz. cheese
6 oz. fresh haddock
6 oz. fresh scallops
6 oz. fresh shrimp
1 cup non-fat milk, liquid
1 1/2 cups evaporated skim milk
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 can drained mushrooms
dash of pepper
2 cups water
1 chicken bouillon cube thinly sliced tomato parmesan cheese

Cover shrimp and scallops in pouches of aluminum foil. Place in 375 degree oven 15-20 minutes. Bake haddock in a shallow dish at 375 degrees for approximately 25 minutes or until fish flakes.

Dissolve bouillon cube in 2 cups of water. Remove from heat; stir in liquid non-fat milk. Return to heat; add evaporated skim milk, stirring until smooth. Add cheese to this mixture (heating over a low heat and stirring frequently) until melted.

Add chopped parsley, mushrooms and a dash of pepper. Pour the mixture into a casserole dish. Stir into this mixture broken pieces of haddock, scallops, and shrimp.

Bake in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Garnish with thinly sliced pieces of tomato and/or sprinkle parmesan cheese on top before or after baking.

With that, I'll sing no sad songs for me because my life now consists of small sizes and not hot fudge sundaes. You can't have one with the other, and I'll take my topping from Saks, not 31 Flavors, these days. It lasts longer, looks nicer, and is so satisfying!

I Samuel 30:12 — "And they gave him a piece of cake of figs and two clusters of RAISINS."

Turn into 9x13-inch pan that has been greased and dusted with I Kings 4:22. Bake in 325-degree oven about 45 minutes. Test with toothpick for doneness.

In case you don't have time to go through your Bible to look up the verses, here they are:

Judges 5:25 — "He asked for water and she gave him milk, she brought him CURDS in a lordly bowl." (Butter)

Isaiah 10:14 — "To what purpose cometh there to me frankincense from Sheba, or SWEET CANE from a distant land?" (Sugar)

Isaiah 10:14 — "And my hand hath found as a nest the riches of the peoples; and as one gathereth EGGS that are forsaken, have I gathered all the earth."

I Kings 4:22 "Solomon's provision for one day was thirty cors of fine FLOUR and sixty cors of meal."

Leviticus 2:13 — "You shall season all your cereal offerings with salt; you shall not let the salt of the covenant with your God be lacking from your cereal offering; with all your offerings you shall offer SALT."

Amos 4:5 — "Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of that which is LEAVENED, and proclaim free will offerings, publishing them." (Baking Powder)

II Chronicles 9:9 — "And she gave the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold and SPICES in great abundance." (Nutmeg)

Exodus 30:23 — "Take thou also, unto these the chief spices; of flowering myrrh five hundred shekels, and of sweet CINNAMON half so much."

Judges 4:19 — "And he said to her, 'Pray, give me a little water to drink for I am thirsty.' So she opened a skin of MILK and gave him a drink."

Nahum 3:12 — "All your fortresses are like fig trees with first ripe FIGS."

Numbers 17:8 — "And on the morrow Moses went into the tent of the testimony: and behold, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi had sprouted and put forth buds, and produced blossoms, and it bore ripe ALMONDS."

I Samuel 30:12 — "And they gave him a piece of cake of figs and two clusters of RAISINS."

Conversion hearing

A public hearing on what would be the North County's second-largest condominium conversion and Daly City's first was opened by the Planning Commission last Tuesday night.

There was an overflow crowd at the Civic Center session.

About 175 tenants of the Crown Colony Apartments on Imperial Way crowded in to hear David B. Kuhn, Jr., vice president-community development of Cadillac Fairview Homes of Newport Beach, make the presentation for the owner.

The Crown Colony Tenants Association also presented many pages of facts and figures, concerned mainly with the condition of the apartment complex and purchase or re-location arrangements for the tenants.

Indicative of the size and potential impact of the conversion project, City Planner Robert-Joe Vasquez presented a 13-page preliminary staff report and asked for time for further study.

The commissioners agreed, directing Vasquez also to gather information from other Bay Area cities experiencing condominium conversions on impacts from them, prices paid by purchasers of the units, and profiles of the types of buyers.

The hearing was continued to a special meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 3 at the Civic Center, when Vasquez is to have the completed report. Another large gathering is expected.

Kuhn's presentation centered mainly around purchase plans and financing for buyers, with present tenants to get a 10 percent discount from the listed sale prices. At present the tenant prices would range from $41,335 to $89,955 and include all units except four large penthouse apartments, which would be considerably higher.

Kuhn warned, however, that delay in approval beyond this spring could result in higher prices for all buyers.

The tenants association's major document for consideration is a five-page questionnaire recently circulated, which drew 262 responses, or 28.5 percent.

Of these, 76.2 percent say they were not interested in purchasing their units. A statistic that's "pretty overwhelming," CCTA spokesman Charles Weinstein noted.

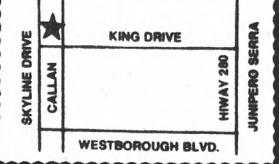

Approximately 36 percent say they would like the CCTA to prevent conversion.

BOOK RENTALS

John Sullivan, librarian, and Denise Schwarzbach, president of the Friends of the Daly City Library, discuss the new rental book collection at the Serramonte Library. The collection, also known as the "Pay Duplicate" collection, is an extension of the successful innovation sponsored by the Friends two and a half years ago at the Westlake Branch and which is popular with patrons wishing to cut the time it might take to secure the loan of a bestseller. No tax money was spent on the purchase of the books, which may be rented for 35 cents for the first three days and ten cents per day thereafter, Sundays and holidays excepted. All books in the rental collection also are among the free books which may be reserved.

Help for kids of alcoholics

Trimming a Christmas tree. Anticipating Santa's arrival. Gathering together of friends and relatives for a holiday feast.

These are holiday activities most children like to take part in.

But for some young people, the holidays do not mean fun and festivities. These children know all too well that when their parents begin to experience the tension and aggravation of holiday preparations they turn to alcohol.

Children of alcoholic parents have it especially rough during the holiday season. Charlie remembers last year when his mother came home from the office Christmas party too late to prepare dinner. But that was only the beginning of her holiday celebrating. Sue recalls all the additional liquor her father purchased to "help bring in the new year." She can still not forget his abusive moods as he finished each bottle.

The 28 million children of alcoholic parents realize holidays offer more opportunities for drinking, and past experience makes them long for the holidays to pass.

The worry, confusion, hostility, resentment and loneliness these children experience need not be held inside. In family sessions held in the CareUnit, the alcoholism unit at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, these young people can share their feelings with other youths and gain from their insight and experience.

Growing up in a home with one or both parents being an alcoholic can give rise to many negative repercussions later in life. Assuming responsibility for the younger children is a role often imposed on the eldest child. The older child denies his own feelings and sets about the task of trying to please everyone and becoming a "model" child.

When these children finally leave home they find it difficult to shed their former roles. Some children are never able to trust another individual and thus become content making themselves a comfortable life alone. Many children often marry alcoholics, or someone with other problems, so they can continue their reacting role.

"These children need professional help to deal with their loneliness and depression," said Kathy Finan, social worker for the hospital's CareUnit program.

"Because of their distorted view of family life, adult children of alcoholics also have difficulties with their own children. More than half of these emotionally scarred adults will turn to alcohol themselves as they try to relate to the world from their experience of growing up in an alcohol-dominated home," Ms. Finan continued.

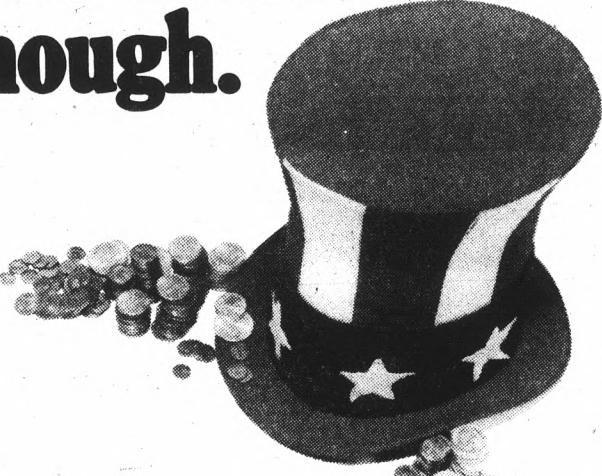

"The family sessions at Mary's Help Hospital are designed to promote the most non-threatening environment possible," said Fran Roa, program coordinator of the CareUnit.

"It is difficult to describe the strides these young people begin to make once they talk to their peers and realize other children empathize with the way they feel. But what is most encouraging for the children is the first hand accounts some of the participants relate about how they overcome the problems common to children of alcoholic parents," Ms. Roa said.

"We offer these children definite hope that one day they can grow up to be responsible adults with the capability of raising responsible, non-alcoholic children," she concluded.

For more information about the family session and other services provided by the CareUnit at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, contact Ms. Roa at 992-4000, ext. 2109.

Your "Rich Uncle Sam" is rich enough.

Keep more tax dollars for your retirement.

It's tough to save for the future when taxes take so much of your income—and interest earnings, too. Thank goodness, you have a wise financial friend, Citizens Savings, to help.

Save for retirement...save taxes!

For people not covered by an employer pension fund, Citizens offers an IRA (Individual Retirement Account) Plan.* Your nestegg will grow dramatically faster than in a regular savings account, because deposits and interest-earnings are entirely tax-deferred until you begin to withdraw funds at retirement. Each year, you may contribute up to $1,500, or 15 percent of your annual income, whichever is less. And, if your spouse is unemployed, you may contribute up to even higher limits.

If you receive pension funds from a former employer, these can be rolled over into an IRA with the same remarkable tax advantages.

Are you self-employed? Save bigger, faster!

A KEOGH (HR-10) retirement program* gives tax-deferred income and interest benefits with the ability to set aside up to $7,500, or 15 percent of your annual income, whichever is less. (And if you're in a 50-percent tax bracket, we can show you how a "Defined Benefit" Keogh can help you defer taxes on even more money each year.)

More help from Citizens.

In addition, Citizens keeps retirement plan customers up-to-date on legislation and IRS rulings affecting their IRA and KEOGH savings programs with timely newsletters. You'll receive a quarterly statement showing the exact status of your account. And for a low fee, Citizens can even prepare your state and federal income tax returns.

You work too hard for your money to give so much to a "Rich Uncle." Save more for yourself—with a Wise Financial Friend.

*A nominal yearly trustee fee will be charged.

Who...is your wise financial friend?

Permits available

State Parks and Recreation Director Russell Cahill has announced that the annual day-use and boat-launching permits, which were scheduled to be discontinued at the end of 1979, will be available again, in 1980, with some new restrictions.

Since the new fee schedule was announced October 4, Cahill said, there have been few protests of the moderate increases in fees but a flood of protests about elimination of the annual permits.

Cahill announced the following new rules for the annual permits:

The annual day-use permit and the annual boat-launching permit will each cost $25, an increase of $10 over the present $15 per year. Thus the combined charge for annual day-use and boat-launching permits will be $50 for vehicle and boat.

During the period April 1 through Sept. 30, the annual permits will not be valid on weekends or holidays. During that period, all users on weekends and holidays must pay the regular day-use fee of $1 per day, or the combined charge of $4 per day for vehicle and boat.

Frequent users will be able to buy 15 day-use tickets at one time for $20, or $5 combination day-use and boat-launching tickets for $40. These tickets may be used on summer weekends and holidays, as well as on any other day throughout the year.

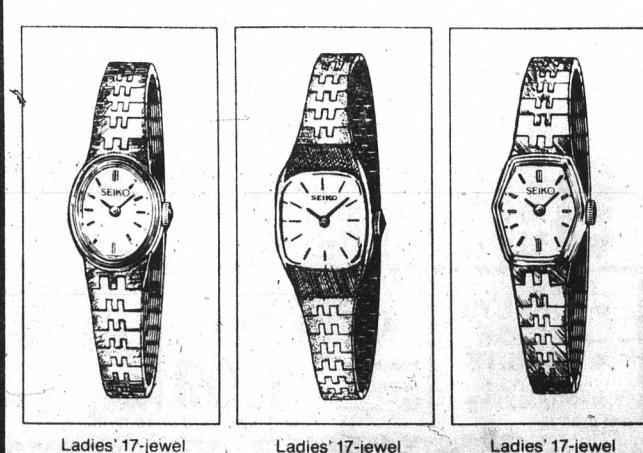

The new 50 percent discount available beginning January 1, 1980, to all people 62 years of age or older for most state park fees will not apply to the annual permits, Cahill said.

Samuel Chandler

They ought to modernize Christmas, someone told the poetess Helen Steiner Rice and suggested that her Christmas rhymes should be "casual and impersonally terse" because "heart to heart greetings are strictly passe."

Ms. Rice responded that at Christmas time: "I can't help feeling there's already too much of that heartlessly cold and impersonal touch in business and all walks of living today. And nothing remains to brighten our way. For what is there left to make the heart sing? When life is a cold and mechanical thing."

The verse is simple, yet the thought is there. Christmas is a time for smiling, for twinkling eyes, for rippling laughter, for friendship and for noting that all men are kinsmen. Ms. Rice called Christmas "the time for infinite living."

This term is defined by Alfred Lord Tennyson in his "Christmas and New Year Bells":

"Ring out the grief that saps the mind. For those that here we see no more; Ring out the feud of rich and poor. Ring in redress to all mankind."

Ring out a slowly dying cause. And ancient forms of party strife; Ring in the nobler modes of life. With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin. The faultless coldness of the times; Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes. But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood. The civic slander and the spite; Ring in the love of truth and light. Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease. Ring out the narrowing list of gold; Ring out the thousand wars of old. Ring in the thousand years of peace.

The Times

Ring in the valiant man and free. The larger heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of the land. Ring in the Christ that is to be."

Ms. Rice writes that Christmas is a time to "knock on your heart's door", to find your "inner light", and to burn "candles of love" within your soul "that will not fade away."

But will grow in your heart and home all year And light all the loves that you come near— For the light of the world can only be lit By the lights in the hearts that are part of it."

With such thoughts in mind, even one who would modernize Christmas should use the holiday to open his heart and sing a hymn that Lois B. Wills called her "New World Hymn":

"God of all nations, Thy chastened children meet. Drawn by a common anguish to Thy feet. Curbed are the strident tongues, the myriad flags are furled.

Help us, O God, to save our wayward world!"

Spirit of Brotherhood, our Captive souls unbind: Loosen the grasping hand, unwarp the mind; Burst bars of race and creed, the patriot dream transcend.

Build us one world, one kinship to defend!

Spirit of Liberty, refine the laws that be: Teach us the disciplines that make men free— Fearless to speak and pray, and strong to work and plan.

Clear Thou the pathways of the common man!

God of all nations, forsaken with thirst we meet. Driven from waste and jungle to Thy feet. Tuned are the divers tongues, the flags of hope unfurled.

Help us, O God, to save our waiting world!"

Efforts to save San Francisco Bay

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Richard Hammond's statement, "A concern for wetlands is an acquired taste," drew a chuckle from the close to 200 participants at the Save San Francisco Bay Association biennial conference last week at the Boalt School of Law on the UC Berkeley campus.

Hammond, deputy secretary for resources, state of California, was one of three panelists who presented comments on "The Future Edge of the Bay?"

Before he and the other speakers — Angelo Siracusa, president of the Bay Area Council, and Joseph Houghteling, chairman, Bay Conservation and Development Commission — made their presentations, William Penn Mott Jr., president, State Parks Foundation, set the tone for the day with two key thrusts for the 1980s: cooperative effort among San Francisco Bay Association and the various public agencies as well as private businesses and industries towards wetlands preservation; and a greater thrust by the association in creating increased and better public understanding of the necessity of marshes and other wetlands to human as well as other forms of life.

Hammond again struck the audience's fancy with his comment, "The aesthetic of the wetland is not everyone's visual delight."

He also challenged the audience's thought as he explored his "development of a personal wetlands philosophy" over a period of time, substantiating Mott's call for wider wetlands education.

What, exactly, is a "wetland"? Defined specifically, it is any land under water any part of the time. Some areas are covered only at the highest tides, or, in the case of a fresh water area, only at times of greatest watercourse flow.

A wetland can be a marsh, either fresh water or salt, or a mudflat. What makes it wholesome and productive is the constant flow of water and the absence of pollutants over and above what can be cleansed organically by the wetland itself.

Wetlands release oxygen by breaking down organic materials.

A wetland spreads surface runoff and flood waters evenly allowing such water to percolate slowly through the layers of subsoil to reach natural aquifers, the underground storage tanks man draws on through wells.

Wetlands are nurseries. The beginnings of the ocean food chain is here. These shallow, warm waters are the spawning grounds for countless varieties of fish which later feed the food fish of the oceans. Some of the food fish themselves hatch and grow sleek in inland estuaries before migrating to the sea.

During other times of the year, especially now in winter, Bay Area wetlands teem with migratory wildfowl, stuffing themselves with seeds and feasting on the tiny crustaceans and the smaller native fish that abound.

Since wetlands grow fiber — the common straight-as-an-arrow cord grass seen in many places along the edge of the bay — at a rate twice that of dry land farms, scientists are investigating the harvesting of such crops for use as fuel to produce energy.

Research already shows the idea to be feasible economically.

Wetlands also offer people a place for sport and recreation. Fishing, bird watching, aquatic nature studies, photography, even hiking, biking and jogging along dikes and boardwalks can all take place.

As Mott mentioned in his keynote comments, the current energy crisis will probably keep people closer to home in the next decade. If the public understands the purpose and potential of the wetlands, it may lobby actively for funds to be spent for such wetland park creation and preservation.

Hammond also stressed lobbying efforts, commanding Save San Francisco Bay Association action in letting state and local legislators know about and understand environmental concerns related to the bay. He warned, however, that a broad base of understanding of the issue is vital, citing urban resident "bay and wetlands awareness" as a must.

Siracusa, whose organization, the Bay Area Council, represents 300 major corporations operating in the Bay Area warned against environmental elitism. Because the Bay Area environment is good — cleaner air and water than in many other places, plus an excellent climate for many kinds of job activities — it is "growth inducing" in and itself.

There is desire for development along the edge of the bay, but Siracusa foresees little pressure for additional fill nor for exploitation of wetlands.

In a verbal circuit of the 276 miles of shoreline around the bay, Siracusa highlighted what he believes are the development realities of the next 10 years — service jobs, office space and clean industry involving high technology.

Interestingly, he foresees an "in-filling" along our local stretch of bay from Brisbane south to Coyote Point with more service facilities — hotels, restaurants, airport service and airline suppliers, but the creation of jobs will probably not be matched by an increase in housing units in the area.

As last panelist, Joseph Houghteling, chairman of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, spoke about the effectiveness of BCDC as a "reactive" commission and an engineering agency.

Remarkably, he could speak only as an individual, Houghteling noted that BCDC is a commission charged with maintaining balance between conservation and "development" of the land in its jurisdiction which consists of a strip of shoreline 100 feet wide circling the edge of the bay.

Prior to the panel discussion, William Siri, president of Save San Francisco Bay Association, convened the annual meeting at which reports were made, directors elected and a Wetlands Resolution adopted.

In his report, Siri reviewed the goals of the group which numbers approximately 20,000 members — water quality, open water, habitat preservation and public access — in light of the year's activities, especially the Adopt-a-Shore program which resulted in the monitoring by 60 volunteers of 51 public access sites around the bay.

Those involved visited the sites at their convenience during the year noting the presence or absence of public access signs, ease of access, parking conditions, as well as the number of people using the area and the kinds of recreational activities being pursued.

These various Adopt-a-Shore reports were discussed in detail during "county workshops" which followed the morning panel. Special resource people from BCDC as well as various state and federal agencies along with a number of state and local legislators and officials including Councilman Art Lepore of Millbrae, participated in the open discussions.

For more information about the Save San Francisco Bay Association (whose membership dues remain $1 a year), write to Box 925, Berkeley, 94701.

The yearbook bites the dust at Serramonte

By ROBIN MOELLER
Serramonte High School

It looks as though this is going to be the last year for the Serramonte yearbook.

Friday, Dec. 7, was the last day of purchasing yearbooks. A $10 deposit was required, with the cost likely to increase if not enough books were ordered.

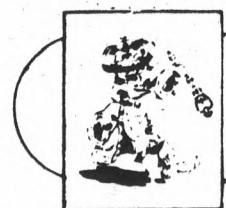

Well, very few yearbooks did get ordered, resulting in a reduced yearbook with no club and activities section and a paper-bound cover. The yearbook staff thinks this yearbook will cost approximately $7.

Serramonte school rings were on sale Dec. 13 and 14. A $20 deposit was required.

Any student wishing the order form for school rings could pick it up at the attendance office window during lunch or from Mr. Terranova.

The rings come in either gold or silver and any thickness you specify. Initials are carved on the inside of the rings.

The Serramonte store now is open and functioning selling candy bars. The executive board is in charge of the store and members of the executive board run it during lunch.

The Regent

The student store might expand and sell donuts in the morning. Last week the junior class sold donuts before school for 35 cents each and 50 cents for two.

The student store has offered the California Scholarship Federation club some money since the store was selling the same time CSF was selling candy canes.

All clubs that wish to any item must submit a petition to the executive board, which either passes or rejects it. This eliminates confusion and mass selling of similar items at the same time. No one is authorized to sell anything on campus, unless it has submitted a petition to the executive board.

The CSF club has been told they cannot go to the University of California, Davis, unless they pay the costs after the first 50 miles, the distance restriction. The club has decided to plan a field trip for a Thursday in January to the University of California, Berkeley.

The Serramonte faculty has started up a fund for Mr. Dubois to help support his legal fees. Mr. Dubois was principal at Serramonte High School until during the strike he was suspended and forced into a teaching job at Thornton High. Clubs have been asked to contribute donations to Mr. Dubois' cause.

Flowergrams were on sale all last week at Serramonte for 35 cents each and $1 for four. They are going to be distributed Dec. 21 during first period, the last day of school before the Christmas recess.

Serramonte will have a rally on Thursday, Dec. 20. It will be rally schedule that day.

A representative from the University of the Pacific came to Serramonte last Thursday to discuss aspects of the campus.

Senior picture make-ups and senior test make-ups were taken last Thursday.

Saturday, Dec. 15 from 8-11:30 there was a Christmas disco dance at the War Memorial Community Center. Dr. Funk was the disc jockey and tickets sold for $2.

The drama club will put on a Gong Show Jan. 25. On Jan. 18, the seniors will be having a senior dance.

Transportation is still a problem at Serramonte and there currently are only three school buses in operation. They are: Palisades and Northgate Park, Oceanview and Skyline, and Geneva and Saipan. They all pick up at 7:30 a.m.

For a $1.50 you can be a voting member at the Serramonte PTSAs. The next meeting will be Jan. 17.

Half of the quarter is already over and teachers were giving progress reports last week. A total of 210 units of credit are required for graduation.

Each semester class is worth five units. There are two semesters in each school year. Specific classes required are: English — 20 units; social studies — 30 units (to include American history/government); science — 10 units; mathematics — 10 units (if proficiency test is passed, otherwise an additional 10 units of remedial math required); physical education — 30 units; electives — 100 units. Beginning with the class of 1981, all students must pass competency exams.

A proficiency examination may be taken by any student over 16 years of age. If passed, and with parent permission, it may be used in lieu of completing graduation requirements. The test dates are March 8 with registration deadline Feb. 13, and results mailed April 25; and May 31 with registration deadline May 7 and results mailed July 28.

The SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) and the ACH (Achievement Test) are required by colleges and universities and may be taken more than once.

Future test dates are January 26 — registration closes Dec. 21 (last date for ACH test); March 22 (SAT only) — registration closes March 28; and June 7 — registration closes May 2.

All adult visitors to the Serramonte High School campus must register in the main office.

Tonsils in the poodle

By Dr. David Barnett.

Question: Our 10-month-old female black miniature poodle is very precious to us. Unfortunately, she has been sneezing, coughing, gagging and occasionally gasping during the last six months. We've had her checked and a tonsilectomy was recommended.

Is such a decision advisable without more extensive examination? Would a history of respiratory ailments in the first year make breeding later inadvisable?

L. M.

Answer: Tonsilitis often is accompanied by gagging, sneezing and choking. Post-nasal drip problems also can cause the same symptoms. Tonsilectomies sometimes are indicated for dogs with recurring inflammation of the tonsils but are of no help for the post-nasal drip.

Having a second opinion might give you a better feeling about having the surgery done, if the consulting veterinarian felt it was indicated. Later breeding would depend on the severity of the respiratory problem.

If the tonsilitis were controlled, it would not affect the advisability of breeding. Severe respiratory problems such as collapsed tracheas, asthma and other debilitating diseases certainly make breeding inadvisable.

Question: I read recently in my hometown newspaper that a veterinarian said that humans can be infected by an animal disease called brucellosis (undulant fever). How can you tell if your pet has this, and how dangerous is it?

M. B.

Answer: Brucellosis, or undulant fever, is caused by several bacteria of the genus Brucella. Cattle, goats, swine and less commonly, horses and dogs may be affected.

The usual source of infection for humans is in the consumption of milk from infected animals or contact with aborted fetuses from infected animals. The main clinical feature of infection in dogs is abortion during the last third of pregnancy.

Serra stuns Dons, 81-63

By TIM MENICUTCH

Guard Tim Baldocchi spent most of last year gathering splinters on the bench as a junior on Serra's varsity basketball team.

Aragon would have gladly offered Baldocchi a pair of golden tweezers, if he would have sat in Friday night's semifinals of the El Camino Tournament.

Baldocchi burned Aragon's zone defense for 31 points (most from long range), in leading Serra to a stunning, 81-63 upset of the previously undefeated and No. 1 ranked in the County Dons.

Serra slated to meet Mills tonight for the tourney crown. Mills advanced to the finals with a 69-68 overtime win over Lowell.

What did Baldocchi do to improve his shooting this season?

"Nothing," said Baldocchi, nonchalantly. "I've always had that shot."

Serra seemed to unnerve Aragon early, by not even attempting to penetrate a zone defense. The Dons rapidly moved the ball around outside, and guards Baldocchi and Marty Pletkin pumped in bombs with deadly accuracy. The duo combined for 27 of Serra's 30 first-half points.

"The key to beating a good zone defense is to move the ball around quickly," said Serra Coach Kevin Donahue. "We didn't penetrate well at all, but we hit the open man and luckily we were hot from the outside."

Serra not only scored almost at will, but also shut down the high-powered Aragon run and gun game to 20 first-half points. In the process, Serra held Aragon's potent threat, Ken Powell, to nine first-half points.

"We knew Powell was a very good shooter," said Donahue. "We forced him to his left and double-covered him whenever possible. Powell penetrates awfully well. We felt the zone would slow them down. Our zone may have caught them by surprise."

"Our pre-game plan was to stop their two guards," said Baldocchi. "Stopping Aragon's guards means stopping their offense. That's why I tried to help out on Powell whenever possible."

Serra came out playing deliberate offense and free-for-all defense. Both plans worked. Pletkin sank three field goals and Baldocchi two, while Aragon could manage just six points and Serra owned a 12-6 first-quarter lead.

The second stanza was more of the same. Baldocchi sunk five field goals and Pletkin canned three to give Aragon a 10-point, 30-20 first-half advantage.

"We were looking to go inside early," said Baldocchi. "But they kept giving us the outside shots and we kept hitting them."

Most observers figured Aragon's early failures could be attributed to the Dons' traditional slow starts. But instead of getting better, things steadily worsened for Aragon. Aragon went to a man-to-man defense and Serra started hitting the short jump shots. At 2:45, Kevin Dunleavy sunk a seven-footer to put the Padres ahead, 42-31.

Aragon came out smoking in the final quarter, but some bad breaks kept the Dons from ever really reaching contention. Kurt Delvin appeared to score on an offensive tip-in, but it was ruled no basket, because of offensive goal-tending. Ronnie Franklin followed with a steal and slam dunk. His basket counted, but he was nailed with a technical foul for hanging on the rim.

So the momentum all stayed with Serra. Aragon closed to within seven points, but with 5:47 left, Pletkin converted a three-point play to give Serra a 10-point lead and Aragon didn't threaten again.

Powell topped all scorers with 34 points, but 25 came in the second half when Aragon was playing catch-up.

Mills could never seem to get untracked and yet led by four to five points most of the game.

Lowell came charging back in the final minutes to tie the game, 62-62, with 1:02 left, and took the lead seconds later on Lev Robinson's hook shot.

Mills' Jim Ryan drove the lane for a lay-up to knot the score at 0:42, 64-64. Lowell stalled for the last shot and got it, but missed and the game went to overtime.

Mills controlled the tip, but lost the ball on a turnover. John Verducci stole it back and passed to Dave Delbon, who was fouled on his way to the hoop. He sunk the second free throw. When Lowell had the ball, Mills stole it again. Delbon scored a fast-break-up, as the Vikes took control, 67-64.

With 1:01 left, Ryan sunk two free throws to clinch the victory.

In the consolation bracket, Capuchino rolled past South City, 70-54, and Westmoor manhandled El Camino, 70-44.

Three players reached double figures for Cap, led by John Spargia's 20 points.

Westmoor was paced by Derrick Johnson's 20-point performance.

Manu's 30 paces Aragon

By SIMI LEE

"You must have set a world's record tonight, Dean," shouted a happy teammate.

Dean Manu, Aragon High's 5-11 forward, didn't exactly set a record, but she did score 30 points to lead the Dons to a 50-46 win over host South San Francisco in the Warriors Invitational girls' basketball tournament Friday night.

Carlmont caught San Mateo on a night when the Bearcats couldn't do anything right and beat SM, 47-22, in the other semifinal game.

Manu, a soft-spoken sophomore, did all her talking with the ball, grabbing offensive rebounds and banking them in for baskets.

Cynthia Moore, a 5-10 forward who passes as well as she shoots, rammed in 11 points, and also fed Manu for easy buckets.

Aragon was devastating on the boards, and with a frontcourt that featured Moore, Manu and 6-1 center Belinda Johnson (comprising the tallest front line among the County's prep teams), it was difficult for South SF to find any room inside. Especially since — for just about the first time this season — Aragon stayed out of foul trouble.

South SF was itself in hot water right from the start as 5-10 soph Scherone Douglas, the Warriors' best rebounder, picked up her fourth personal foul in the first quarter.

Douglas, only a freshman, still played well offensively before fouling out in the fourth quarter. The Warrior center displayed a fine touch with a soft, baseline jumper, and wound up with 16 points.

Carol Guariglia and Mary Stupi, both smaller but quicker than the Aragon forwards, managed to find enough daylight to help out on the boards. Guariglia, a 5-8 forward, played her best game since undergoing knee surgery this summer, and sank 14 pounds for the Warriors.

Regents win opener

Hampered by the Jefferson District teachers' strike and problems finding a coach, Serramonte High's girls' basketball team got a late start.

But Friday the Regents won their belated season opener under rookie mentor Laron Franklin (a former Serramonte boys' cage star) by taking a 43-35 non-league decision over Sequoia (0-2).

Preva Steward, a 5-6 senior forward who transferred from Wilson in San Francisco, notched 17 points for game honors. Wendy Gamblin poured in 13 points for the Cherokees.

Veteran forward Tod Sedlacek led Canada with 21 points. Williams added 16 for the Colts, who dropped to 2-3 for the practice season.

"Thank heavens for practice games," said Colt coach Bob Bowling. "Charles Patton played well. But the inexperience of our guards hurt us. We controlled the game for 30 minutes, but we lost our poise and broke down. We played hard, but we have to know what to do with the ball."

The Colts' next play in the Ohlone Tournament in Fremont Wednesday at 3 p.m. against American River.

Cookie sale is on

With Christmas and New Year's on the way, can Girl Scout cookies be far behind?

The Daly City-Colma Girl Scout Association, a member of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council, has planned a "Tre-mendous" cookie sale for early January 1980, according to Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

A "Girl Scout Grove" will be planted in honor of the girls raising money for local troops, in cooperation with the United States Forest Service. The grove is expected to be at least 10 acres.

Each box of Girl Scout cookies sells for $1.50 with all profits going to local troops or support services.

Cookies available include Savannah (peanut creme center), chocolate and vanilla cremes, mint cookies, Scot-Teas (a horseshoe) and the always popular chocolate flavored chips.

Donation for Coyote Point

The United California Bank Foundation has donated $9,655 for the construction of a biosphere model at the new Coyote Point Museum for Environmental Education which is now under construction in San Mateo.

John Cashin, vice-president and manager, San Mateo Branch, and Ruth Jones-Saxey, secretary-treasurer of United California Bank Foundation, personally presented the check to Linda Liebes, director, and Stephen A. Way, fund-raising chairman, at the construction site.

The biosphere model will be located on the first level of the new museum and is the first permanent exhibit greeting visitors on the main floor.

The model is in the shape of a globe and unlike traditional geologic and geographic models, emphasize show, in a space no greater than 1400th of the earth's radius, reside all living things.

This thin skin of life spread around the planet is likened to an apple skin which is seen being peeled in a hologram. The hologram is in a cut-out section in the center of the globe.

According to Lloyd Dennis, United California Bank Foundation president, the donation from the UCB Foundation represents the Bank's ongoing interest in providing direct financial assistance to various community efforts in a positive and significant way.

Press Club has 2 scholarships

The Peninsula Press Club is inviting college students in San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties to compete for two $275 scholarships.

The scholarship competition is open to all college students in the three counties who will not graduate before Feb. 22, 1980.

The Peninsula Press Club will award one $275 scholarship to a community college student and another to a student attending a four-year college or university.

Winners will receive the scholarships at the Peninsula Press Club's Installation dinner on Feb. 22 at the San Francisco Airport Hilton.

To apply for a scholarship, a student must send copies of two work samples (published or unpublished) to the Peninsula Press Club, P.O. Box 5341, San Mateo, Calif. 94402. One of the work samples must be a news story and the other must be a feature.

Entries must be postmarked no later than Jan. 31, 1980. Winners will be notified by Feb. 8.

Judges for the competition will be newspaper and public relations professionals from the Peninsula Press Club.

The organization will be awarding scholarships for the fourth consecutive year. Last year's winners were Susan Surges, a student at Skyline College in San Bruno, and Mafio Cruz, a student at San Jose State University in San Jose.

No pupil deaths from bus crashes

California school buses traveled another 12 months without a pupil passenger death. Highway Patrol statistics for the year ended June 30, 1979, show.

School buses now have traveled 24 months and 471 million miles without a pupil passenger death.

There has been one student death in that time — a 6-year-old girl struck as she was crossing the road.

The last time a pupil passenger fatality occurred was in 1976-77.

The CHP report for 1978-79 also showed that California school buses were involved in 372 injury accidents resulting in 508 pupil passenger injuries, none of them severe.

The number of buses increased 417 over the previous year to 17,793, and miles traveled increased slightly over 8 million to 239,683,000. Both were new highs.

The school bus mileage death rate (deaths per 100 million miles of travel) has been zero for the past two years. The California rate for all vehicles has been 3.2 both years.
